Left Olathe this morning. Saw a bald eagle along I-35.
Probably got kicked out of a National Park.

Business Insider magazine recently polled its readers, asking which state is the least scenic to drive through. I say with no small amount of pride, the winner among all 50 was Kansas.

Whatever were they thinking?

Meanwhile we set off across our unappreciated landscape, heading for our next western adventures. First stop, Fort Larned, KS for lunch:

Wish us luck.
