Said goodbye to the canyon with a last sunrise stroll along the rim.

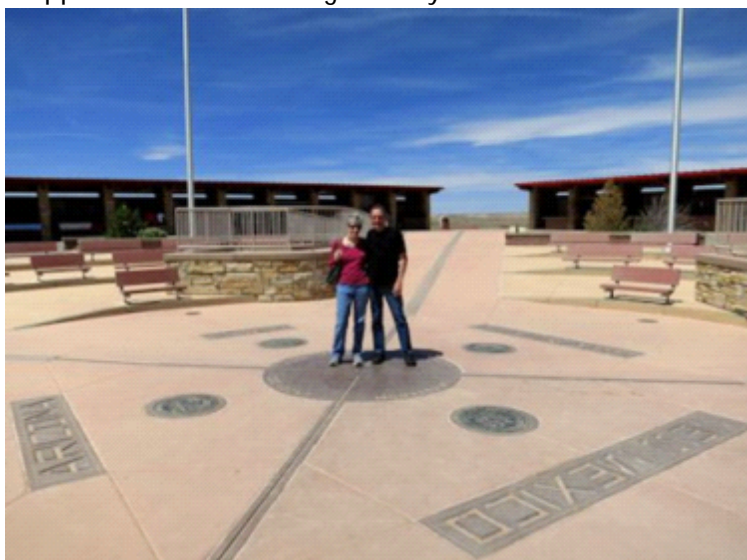

Headed out across the Rez to Durango. Ate Whoppers for lunch in Kayenta.

Sorry, this picture is pure fiction. Based on our research, real Indians hang out at BK and also eat Whoppers.

Stopped at 4-Corners along the way.

We were surrounded by Navajos. But we weren't worried – they were all in jewelry and pottery booths and we had American Express.

Had dinner at The Mahogany Grille in Durango:

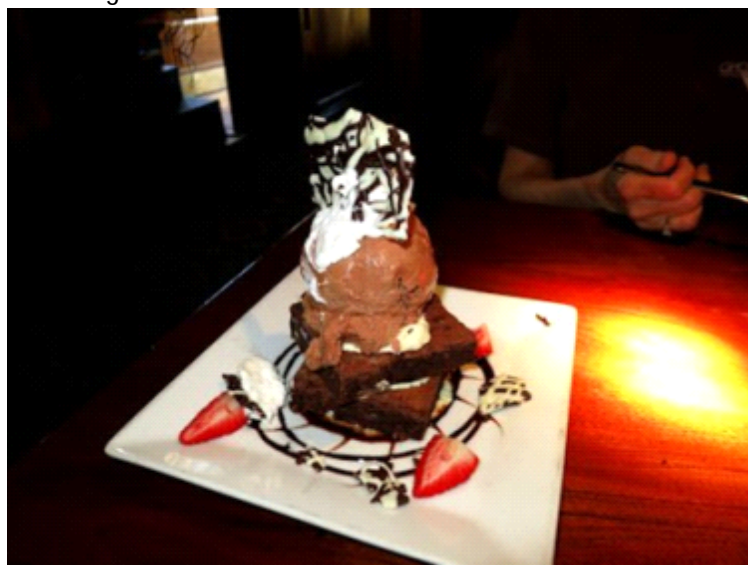

Sautéed Scallops Wrapped in Prosciutto,

Red Chile Quinoa Lentil Cakes.

Sound good?

They were superb.

Now forget about them.

Can you say Chocolate Avalanche?
