

Date: 10/25/2015 10:02:05 PM

Subject: Postcard

---

Last night we rewarded ourselves with a fancy dinner at Mariposa, Sedona's sensational new restaurant. We had earned it.

There were a lot of things we didn't like about Mariposa, Sedona's sensational new restaurant, but we'll share just this one. The inside cover of the menu is inscribed as follows:

To have been given an opportunity to create a restaurant on such sacred land is so rare that quite truthfully, it's hard to put into mere words the gratitude I have. I realize fully that this process has been divinely guided and is a gift from both heaven and earth, a privilege in every way.

My pledge to all of you that made this possible, my angel Justin, and the Creator of this beautiful Sedona land, is to honor it and never take for granted what this stewardship truly means. Hence, the name "Mariposa" which means "Butterfly" in Spanish, also, so apropos; as the elusive creature represents all the elements of Mother Nature's perfection, inner wisdom, freedom of choice and personal transformation....a symbol of hope for each and every one of us to behold.

So hard to eat when you're gagging.

---

We're baaaaack...

Yep. GC. Needed a fix so we'll spend 2 nights here. WiFi is wretched. Hope this goes.

D&S

postcardsfromthesouthwest.com