As dawn broke in Marble Canyon we raced the 40 miles to Kanab to participate in the BLM* raffle for tomorrow's North Coyote Buttes permits. (I know, it's confusing, we were in South Coyote Buttes yesterday – the easy permit to get.) About 75 participants, representing about 150 applicants, contested for 10 openings. The winners were determined using a hand-cranked bingo ball cage. The guy calling the numbers didn't dress like a priest but he did have an uncanny resemblance to young Spencer Tracy.

WE cannot say that we WON!!

That's because we lost. So we'll do something else tomorrow.
Today we did the laundry.
Sorry no pics.

*To clarify: Bureau of Land Management
