We fairly flew out of Escalante, past enticing red rock scenes.

Past restaurants and motels. Past gift shops and real estate offices. Past cattle ranches and sheep farms, all in search of the elusive Safeway. Which, alas, we never found. But our casita is far enough from anywhere that you need to bring your own food. So we settled for Glazier's Grocery and Honey's Marketplace that, together, had about 2/3 of what we wanted. But we made do.

Eat your hearts out, gourmet wannabes.
